TAB 3: Page — About Us

1. History:

- Imagery: (INSERT 2-3 PHOTOS: Historical milestone photo, warehouse origins, facility growth)

  Story:

In 2004, a small youth group from Grand Rapids set out on a journey that would reshape their lives. Packed into two vans, high school students and their leaders drove across the continent to British Columbia's Okanagan Valley with a simple mission: serve.

Camping in an apple orchard, they spent their days chopping surplus fruits and vegetables that would have otherwise gone to waste, spreading them onto trays for industrial dehydration. Once dried, the produce became nutritionally balanced soup mixes, ready for mission partners to feed hungry families around the world.

What began as a service trip quickly revealed something extraordinary:

- High-yield service: Just one hour of volunteer labor yielded up to 60 servings of food.
- Low-cost impact: Each serving cost only 10 cents to produce.
- Zero waste: For every pound of rescued produce, three nutritious meals were created.

Inspired by their time with Okanagan Gleaners, the group returned home with a vision. In 2008, Sus Manos Gleaners was officially founded to mobilize West Michigan's rich agricultural resources and strong volunteer spirit to feed a hungry world.

Today, Sus Manos Gleaners partners with local farmers, businesses, and dedicated volunteers to turn surplus produce into nutrient-dense soup mixes and dried fruit snacks. By dehydrating the food, we lock in vital nutrients, extend shelf life for years, and drastically reduce shipping weight and costs. Packaged in bulk barrels, these life-giving meals are distributed worldwide through trusted Christian mission partners to communities facing critical shortages.

What started in two vans has grown into an enduring global movement. As new doors continue to open, we invite you to join us, lend a hand, feed the hungry, and be part of something lasting.

TAB 4: Page — What We Do (Process & Global Distribution)

1. The Step-by-Step Gleaning & Dehydration Process

1. Rescuing Surplus Harvest: Partnering with West Michigan growers to capture excess produce, surplus crops, and cosmetically imperfect vegetables that would otherwise be lost. (INSERT PHOTO: Intake and inspection dock)
2. Volunteer Preparation: Multi-generational volunteers clean, trim, slice, and prepare produce across our Jenison warehouse prep tables. (INSERT PHOTO: Volunteers slicing squash or carrots)
3. Industrial Dehydration: Produce is spread across food-grade mesh trays and dried in commercial dehydrators, maximizing shelf life and nutrient density. (INSERT PHOTO: Dehydrator rack loading)
4. Nutritious Soup Formulation & Packaging: Dried vegetables are blended into vitamin-rich soup mixes and vacuum-sealed for long-distance transport. (INSERT PHOTO: Weighing and heat-sealing soup pouches)
5. Pallet Staging & Global Freight: Packaged meals are boxed, palletized, and coordinated for international shipment in Christ's name. (INSERT PHOTO: Pallets ready for container transport)

2. Dehydration Technology Advantages

- 90% Volume & Weight Reduction: Minimizes logistics costs, making overseas container freight highly efficient.
- Nutritional Integrity: Locks in up to 95% of vitamins, fiber, and micronutrients.
- 2-3 Year Shelf Stability: Requires no refrigeration or specialized climate storage.

3. Global Distribution & Mission Partners

- Partner Criteria: Distributed exclusively through trusted, established mission partners, clinics, and relief teams who ensure direct in-hand delivery to hungry communities.
- Photography Standard: Dignity in Relief—images must show joy, human dignity, and authentic community partnership (avoiding distress or guilt-driven imagery).
- Regions Served: (INSERT LIST OF ACTIVE RECIPIENT COUNTRIES: e.g., Haiti, Ukraine, Guatemala, Kenya, Honduras)
- Field Testimonials: (INSERT 1-2 SHORT QUOTES OR FIELD STORIES WITH PHOTOS OF RECIPIENTS)
